

G's POTATO CHIP FISH KEBABS

Here's an oldie, but a goodie—circa 1968. My childhood and dear friend Janis had the most beloved father on the block. He was a man way ahead of his time. I remember spending countless hours at their house as he introduced us to everything from Fred and Ginger dancing in Top Hat to Mahler's Symphony No. 9. His enthusiasm for the things he loved was infectious and it made us love them too.

He also knew his way around a kitchen in the days when it was strictly the woman's domain. He even won a cooking contest sponsored by the Potato Chip Institute International for this dish—not kidding!

But what's really a hoot is the article that was written about him when he won. My, how times have changed. If you can enlarge the picture below, it's worth reading the article! (Thanks Janis for sending it to me!)

Wizard in the Kitchen

Male Cook Is 'State Champ'

By TOBY CHUA

From a potpourri of seafood, vegetables, spices and potato chips, Gerald S. Fox of Bethpage, by profession an electrical engineer, has concocted a prize recipe which has brought him the titles of New York State Men's Cooking Champion and Wizard Cook . . . both ungrudgingly granted him by women.

The state title represents the triumph of his recipe Potato Crisp Fish Kebab, along with 49 others over 510,000 submitted nationally and scrutinized, tested and tasted by leading women food authorities in state run-offs in a competition sponsored by the Potato Chip Institute International.

The competition, which brought entries from 456,000 amateur male cooks, calls for recipes for a main dish using potato chips as an ingredient.

Mr. Fox's second title of "Wizard Cook" is an added honor from his wife Florence, a teacher, and three daughters, who have granted him a permanent place in the kitchen of their Bethpage home.

THE STATE title gives Mr. Fox a gold trophy and a crack at the Eastern regional championship, after which he could go to Miami Beach to prepare his recipe personally before a panel of critical women judges selecting Men's National Cooking Champion. "Wizard Cook" represents victory in a decade-old battle with his wife for equal status in the kitchen.

In an interview, while Mr. Fox dabbled with another favorite original recipe, Mocha Souffle Graham Cracker Crust Pie, he explained, "My wife's been trying to drive me out of the kitchen for years. She thought her opportunity to defeat me had come when she noticed an advertisement for the competition in a newspaper.

"She challenged me," he continued, "to enter the contest and said I could maintain a place in the kitchen if I won." Now that he has, Mrs. Fox, who thought him "impossible" in the kitchen, has smilingly said, "He'll be insufferable now."

THE WINNING recipe which Mr. Fox described as a "family favorite for years" and which samplers describe as "superb," grew out of his liking for a dish he tasted while on a business trip to Yorktown, Pa.

Other ventures into the kitchen involve preparation of lunches for his fussy brood of three when his wife is unable to, and concoction of sumptuous dinners as host for the local Gourmet Club of which he and his wife are members. Mr. Fox confessed that his culinary capers go back to his childhood when he worked alongside his mother of Hungarian descent, in the kitchen of their Brooklyn home.

A music lover and active member of the Syosset Concert Association and the Bruckner Society of America, Mr. Fox defined a good cook as one who "can establish a recipe and follow it, yet allow for creativity and know when to deviate from the specifics." He is a graduate of City College, with a master's degree from the Newark College of Engineering, and is associated with Grumman in Bethpage.

Mr. Fox has furnished his winning recipe with ingredients designed to serve six.

POTATO CRISP FISH KEBAB Marinade

- 10 ounces Italian dressing.
  - 1 clove garlic crushed
  - ¼ cup white cooking wine
  - ¼ cup lime juice
  - ¼ cup chopped fresh parsley
  - ¼ teaspoon thyme
- #### Other Ingredients
- 12 jumbo shrimps-shelled,
  - 1 pound scallops
  - ¼ pound fillet of sole
  - 12 cherry tomatoes
  - 6 small white onions
  - 1 green pepper
  - bacon strips
  - 1 package potato chips—approximately 5 ounces.

Prepare marinade by combining all ingredients listed. Cut up fillets and green pepper into neat pieces for skewering. Par-boil peeled onions for 1¼ minutes. Drain. Add all fish and vegetables to marinade. Cover bowl and marinate two hours. Gently stir occasionally.

Crush potato chips . . . this can be done with a rolling pin while chips are still in bag. Coat each marinated shrimp, scallop and piece of fillet with crushed potato chips by pressing chips onto each piece of fish with the heel of a hand. Carefully lay coated fish on a plate.

Skewer fish and vegetables in a pleasing pattern, wrapping alternate fish pieces in bacon before serving. Broil to taste in electric broiler or outdoor barbecue, turning each skewer ¼ turn every few minutes until done (usually until bacon is properly done and potato chip edges are dark brown—approximately 15 minutes). Serve over bed of rice.

Mr. Fox recommends boiling the rice with two parts clam juice and one part water.

This recipe is being reprinted in honor of what would have been G's 97nd birthday. We miss you G!

INGREDIENTS

MARINADE

10 oz Italian dressing
1 clove garlic, crushed
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup white cooking wine
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup fresh lime juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup chopped fresh parsley
salt and pepper to taste

KEBABS

12 jumbo shrimps, deveined and shelled
1 pound scallops
 $\frac{3}{4}$  pound fillet of sole
12 cherry tomatoes
6 small white onions, peeled
1 green pepper
1 pound bacon strips
1 package potato chips (approx. 5 oz)
1 cup jasmine rice
1 cup clam juice
1 cup water
salt and pepper to taste

PREPARATION

Prepare marinade by combining all marinade ingredients listed. Cut up the fillets and green pepper into 2" pieces for skewering. Par-boil peeled onions for 90 seconds. Drain. Add all the fish and vegetables to the marinade. Cover bowl and marinate for two hours, gently stirring occasionally.

Cut a tiny whole in the potato chip bag to let out the air. Crush potato chips inside the bag with a rolling pin. Coat each marinated shrimp, scallop, and piece of fillet with crushed potato chips by pressing chips onto each piece of fish with the heel of your hand. Carefully lay coated fish on a plate.

Skewer fish and vegetables in a pleasing pattern, wrapping alternate fish pieces in bacon. Broil skewers on low, turning them a  $\frac{1}{4}$  turn every few minutes until the bacon is cooked and the potato chip edges are dark brown—about 15 minutes.

Cook the rice as per box directions using equal parts of water and clam juice as the liquid. Serve the kebabs over a mound of rice.
